

Come to an afternoon of music and entertainment while supporting a great community project in Launceston.

Flo Bannah, a 4th year Social Work student at UTAS is going back to his home country of Liberia to capture the rebirth of a new nation emerging from one that was devastated by war. Flo is going back to create an educational video of his journey to present on his return.

This will be a journey into the political, social, health and welfare realities of people's lives. To assist his journey we are holding an event where we will hear from Flo and other Community members talk about the transition from life in Liberia to living in Tasmania.

Where: NICS Building (LGH),
41 Frankland Street, Launceston.

When: Saturday 13th April 3.30 to 8pm

Cost: BY DONATION

Live music with the band Azimus and light refreshments provided.
